

WILSON RETURNS PICTURE OF HEALTH

President Plunges Into Work and Cleans Up Accumulated Cabinet Business.

Brown as a berry, his eyes sparkling with animation, and his voice ringing with a new strength, President Wilson assembled his Cabinet about him this morning, and plunged back into work. He set a pace that startled the members of his "official family." Each Cabinet officer had with him a sheaf of papers relating to departmental matters that had been held up pending the President's return. With his remarkable knack of systematizing, the President took up each subject in turn, disposed of those that could be disposed of with a word, and arranged for future conference with the individual members regarding those requiring more consideration.

In less than half an hour he had in his hands the loose ends of all the various questions. The President reached Washington with his family at 7:12 o'clock this morning. White House automobiles were waiting at Union Station, and while waiting the President was getting downtown the President, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret, Miss Eleanor, and Miss Hazel Bones were whisked up to the White House. There it was a regular homecoming.

Isaac Hoover, the chief usher, had arranged flowers attractively about the various rooms, and in the three places log fires were crackling. In the dining room breakfast was waiting.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo was the first caller. The two discussed at length the tentative bill brought back by the President from Pass Christian of men available for appointment to the Federal reserve board, and the observations made by the Secretary and Secretary Houston regarding the cities being considered as regional reserve centers.

The Cabinet meeting was a general get-together proposition. The question of antitrust legislation was discussed at some length, various members calling the President's attention to reports of a movement among conservative Democrats in both branches of Congress to defer action until next fall.

The President told his official family that while he had with him a tentative draft of his proposed antitrust legislation, he would, before reading it, message to Congress on the subject, confer with the majority members of the House Judiciary Committee, which, at his request, has been considering various phases of the proposed legislation. This conference probably will be held tomorrow morning.

BLAMES POOR LIGHT FOR STREET MISHAPS

Police Captain Doyle Says Avenue of the Presidents Should Have More Lamps.

The poor lighting of the northern part of the Avenue of Presidents is responsible for the street accidents which have occurred there, according to Police Captain Robert E. Doyle, of the Tenth Precinct, who addressed the Piney Branch Citizens' Association Monday night in the Iowa Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. He expressed the hope that more lights would be installed on the thoroughfare, and said he thought that this would be done after July 1.

The following committee chairmen were announced by President Charles P. McCurdy: Henry Thurtell, member of the Senate, and the Howard Park Citizens' Association; Monday night in the Iowa Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. He expressed the hope that more lights would be installed on the thoroughfare, and said he thought that this would be done after July 1.

Pointing to the operation of the Water Department as an example of the District's ability to properly handle an important part of the city government, Commissioner Oliver P. Newman Monday night in addressing the Howard Park Citizens' Association advocated the disposal of garbage by the District. This is now handled by private contract. He outlined the duties of the District Insurance Commissioner's office as having general supervision over the capitalization and conduct of companies, and to be always in constant contact with the people of the District.

MAY NAME PINCHOT TO OPPOSE PENROSE

Bull Moose Leaders Say Roosevelt Would Campaign for Conservation Expert.

Gifford Pinchot, former Chief Forester of the United States, and one of the right-hand men of Theodore Roosevelt, will be the nominee of the Progressive party for the United States Senate in Pennsylvania.

While this has not been finally and formally settled, the word brought here by Bull Moose leaders is that Pinchot will be determined on as the candidate. They say the signs are that he will make a great race.

Mr. Pinchot is now speaking in the State. He is not out asking the voters to support him, but that support is apparently coming, so far as the Bull Moose are concerned. This is indicated by the fact the Progressive party men of Allegheny county recently adopted a resolution favoring Pinchot for the Senate.

The nomination of Pinchot would mean that Roosevelt would go into Pennsylvania and campaign in his behalf.

Some talk has been current that Senator Penrose might not get the Republican nomination, but this seems not well based. He apparently will be nominated. He has been in the State for weeks working assiduously. He has undertaken the old Matt Quay plan of personal interviews with just as many of "the boys" as possible.

It is not clear who will get the Democratic nomination. Some talk is afloat of Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer. Also there is talk of fusion between Democrats and Progressive party forces. If there should be fusion, Pinchot might be settled on as the candidate of the fusion forces. It is almost certain the Progressive party will not sanction fusion if it means a plan to get Palmer.

Progressive party leaders in Pennsylvania are not keen for fusion as a matter of fact. They believe their forces are well organized and that in 1914 they are going to draw heavily from both old parties. If there is a three-cornered fight, with Pinchot seeking the Senate and Roosevelt coming up and down the State for him it will be worth watching.

BORE INTO SKULL TO CURE PARESIS

Serum Injected Into Brain of Patient by Physicians in Philadelphia Hospital.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—A remarkable operation, the first of its kind ever performed in this country, took place at St. Mary's Hospital. It consisted of the direct application of serum to a diseased brain through holes bored in the skull of the patient, and marks the latest daring step in medical science in the treatment of a cerebral disease heretofore considered incurable.

The patient, a man fifty-one years old, was suffering from paresis, a form of paralysis resulting from degeneration of the brain cells, and commonly known as "softening of the brain."

Five Doctors Work.

The operation was performed by Dr. Elwood R. Kirby, assisted by Drs. Leo Weljzynski, George Kleffer, Edward Murphy and Robley D. Shively. Dr. Kirby explained the operation. He said: "This is the fourth time this operation has been performed and the first time it has been done in this country. Three similar operations have been performed in France, good results following two of them, the third case was an advanced one."

The operation was performed as the only method of dealing with paresis, which is a breaking down of the brain cells, marked by increased loss of control over the muscles and deterioration of the mental faculties, and ends in hopeless insanity and death. The remedy heretofore has been considered incurable. It is the result of a serious blood disease, the germs of which have been found in the brains of persons suffering from paresis.

Does Not Reach Brain.

"Salvarsan, a compound of arsenic, has achieved a wonderful reputation for combating these germs in the body, but intravenous injections do not seem to reach the germs in the brain, as the remedy seems, to put it crudely, to filter out of the blood before it reaches the diseased cerebral tissues. This arsenical compound cannot be used directly on the brain or nervous tissue, although it can be injected into the blood.

The serum was prepared by injecting salvarsan into a rabbit, and a short time later we took a quantity of the animal's blood, filtered it, and used this salvarsanic serum on the patient.

"Two small holes were bored in the patient's skull, one leading to the right and the other to the left half of the brain. Five cubic centimeters of the salvarsanic serum were carefully injected into each brain hemisphere. This brought the powerful arsenical serum into direct contact with the germs in the brain, and for the first time in this country these germs are being attacked at the seat of the disease."

Is a Radical Step.

"The operation of trephining, or boring small holes in the skull, is not dangerous, but the application of serum directly into the brain is a radical step, which is justified, however, by the gravity of the malady. As this operation was performed on a patient in an early stage of the disease, we expect a considerable improvement in his mental condition."

A prominent surgeon thought the direct application of healing serum to the affected brain tissues was a stroke of genius, and expected wonderful results to follow the use of this method of treatment in a number of cerebral diseases.

RECEIVER TO HOLD HARRISON DRAFT

Litigation Over Alleged Embezzlement Is Further Complicated by Court.

Justice Gould, of the District Supreme Court, has appointed the National Savings and Trust Company temporary receivers for the $3,000 Chicago draft drawn on Sidney B. Harrison, who has been missing since December 19, charged with embezzling $32,000 from N. L. Carpenter & Co. brokers. The draft was drawn by Walter Heistion and the Carpenter company has filed an attachment against it. The appointment of receivers further complicates the maze of litigation which followed the disappearance of Harrison and Alice E. Malone, employed in the same office. This draft was sent to Harrison by Heistion from Chicago, but was turned over to John W. Daniel, Jr., present manager of the Carpenter firm because it did not arrive until after Harrison and Miss Malone had left the city. The National City Bank, of Chicago, which cashed the draft for Heistion, brought suit some time ago in Justice Gould's court to prevent the Western Union Telegraph Company from turning over the money paid Heistion by the Chicago bank and sent by telegraph to Harrison to take up the draft. The money will remain in the bank's hands until the court decides the case brought by the National City Bank to recover the money, a suit resisted by the Carpenter brokerage firm. At the $5,000 is claimed as part of the indebtedness of $32,000 charged to Harrison and Malone in the embezzlement proceedings. No trace of Harrison or Miss Malone has been found since they left Washington.

Certainly Not.

Consideration—a Comparison and a Conclusion

THE coming of the COMMUNITY MAUSOLEUM is due to the awakening of our people to certain facts, a tardy realization of which have served to bring us face to face with conditions, the immediate consideration of which will not longer be denied.

The Cemetery Is a Civic Menace and a Municipal Nuisance

EACH day this fact is looming larger and larger before our reluctant vision. The difficulty attendant upon the establishment of new cemeteries amply attests this fact. Realizing the conditions that inevitably follow the placing of the human form beneath the ground, authorities the country over oppose it for sanitary reasons. In fact, lack of thought, want of consideration is all that stands between the graveyard and relegation to the forgotten past from whose dark ages the custom sprang.

AN investigation of the COMMUNITY MAUSOLEUM inevitably leads to a comparison with the old method of earth burial. This comparison brings to light the fact that the purchase of a compartment in a MAUSOLEUM, while comparing favorably in point of cost with grave burial, carries with it the advantages of absolute permanency and protection, perfect sanitation and preservation of the remains in their human form forever, surroundings equal to those of the most costly private mausoleum; the privilege of visiting the final resting place of the departed regardless of weather conditions, and above all the satisfying knowledge that to the departed has been granted every protection, every reverence that lies within human power. This consideration, this comparison can bring us to but one conclusion. Further contemplation of the uncertainties of earth burial are unnecessary. THE COMMUNITY MAUSOLEUM is the solution to a great problem, a solution as satisfactory from a sentimental standpoint as from the sanitary.
